

Manuel Arellano

Short Biography

Manuel Arellano (Elda, Spain 1957) has been a Professor of Economics at CEMFI in Madrid since 1991. Prior to that, he held appointments at the University of Oxford and the London School of Economics. He is a graduate from the University of Barcelona and holds a Ph.D. from the London School of Economics. He has served as Editor of the Review of Economic Studies and Co-Editor of the Journal of Applied Econometrics. He has also served as a member of the ERC Scientific Council and as President of the Scientific Committee of the Spanish Research Agency (AEI). He is a Foreign Honorary Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a Fellow of the Econometric Society, and a Foreign Honorary Member of the American Economic Association. He has been President of the Econometric Society (2014), President of the European Economic Association (2013), and President of the Spanish Economic Association (2003). He has published many research papers on topics in econometrics and labour economics, in particular on the analysis of panel data, being named a Clarivate Citation Laureate in Economics (2018). He is the author of Panel Data Econometrics (Oxford University Press 2003). He has received the Rey Jaime I Prize in Economics (2012), the King of Spain Prize in Economics (2020), and the Spanish National Research Prize “Pascual Madoz” (2023).